RUBBERNOSE RANDOLPH BALD FACE TRUTH

CANDIDATE FOR THE FOURTH REICH

BY MARVIN WALKER

"YOUR NAME, please?"

"Carl Klaus, Excellency."

"Age?"

"Fifty, Excellency."

"What are you doing here in Spain?"

"I wait, Excellency. For two years I have been waiting to return to Germany until the hated invaders were driven out the day every true German feels coming nearer and nearer to his heart. I beg of you, Excellency, let me be one of the first to go back!"

We didn't see Herr Klaus. We understood just down that phase across the open-top car rapidly. There are others waiting."

Ja Herr Klaus. Sometimes I forget myself!

"Very well, Herr Klaus. I have before me a complete dossier of your activities from 1935 and 1944, and also your second years then here in Spain during the last two years. You have been a good Nazi, but there are some phases of your career I do not understand."

But I have communicated regularly with Herr Reichler in America, Excellency. I have kept nothing from him."

In particular, Herr Klaus, as we should like to know some of the details concerning your expression in the position of Chief Engineer in the E. V. U. Gocherbach. Your employment terminated when?"

"In 1948, Excellency."

"You were then engaged in the development of the E. V. U. 1948 aircraft engine as Junior Technical Assistant were you not?"

"Yes, Herr Klaus."

"However, I see that in the next four years you had assumed the responsibilities of Assistant Research Engineer and finally a post later became Chief Engineer."

"Yes. That was when Braunstrom was sent to Dachau. I took his position."

"I see. Now please explain if you available the pay-increased delay in your factory which was a betrayal of The Fatherland and the Fatherland?"

"But your Excellency! We could not help it! The workers were too late! How can leave there were too late!"

No, Herr Klaus. Only your statement was too late. On the tenth anniversary of our own typed Father's service was as Chancellor we had successful, successful rocket launch on the channel coast. Each one complete except for our vital part. I refer to the technical content that which complete responsibility rested in the hands of the director of Rockerbach No. 4. The Herr Klaus."

"That is true, But..."

"We have investigated every aspect of E. V. U. No. 4. All information points to you alone as the man responsible for the operation of the factory. Yet we are patient now, Herr Klaus. We have waited a long time, deeply resenting our former. We asked we need more like you. That is why we have called you here. But we cannot let I agree? We will not tolerate deception this now? If there is any way to achieve yourself of guilt, please say it now! Tell us in the broadest manner the reasons starting in Rockerbach No. 4 in 1942."

"Very well. It goes back to 1941, Excellency. After successful experiments with the rocket propelled rocket launch, we had notified the Ministry of Ordnance. We received final approval for our design of the rocket controller and engine to produce them in quantities which staggered the imagination. The Ministry of Ordnance arranged that nothing should be lacking. We were given the same material... we were to be the sole producers of the essential device. By the beginning of the next year we were at mass production and more the first units were ready. They were shipped immediately in France to be assembled in the rocket launch."

"They were not successful?"

No, Excellency. They did not function properly. They did not, as they function at all. Think of it! The launch of thousands of thousands of thousands, each a gem of precision engineering and every one a worthless piece of junk!"

"And why?"

"Oh, it was a beautiful device. Herr Klaus. Everyone was so happy when it came, England would be sure to be quake and then . . . the world! I was there myself, on the coast I watched the first bomb launched with a feeling of triumph. It shot away in a tremendous flash. The bomb struck all around. We cheered and cheered with exultation. We embraced each other madly. And then it happened! The rocket suddenly . . . just as it was disappearing over the horizon, fell into a pool and dropped into the sea! They prepared another which we stood without speaking. The same thing happened again, it fell slowly into the sea a short distance from shore. I could not believe my eyes. One after another they were launched and one after another they dropped madly into the water. It was terrible. Everyone blamed everyone else. The engineers who had designed the bomb blamed us. We blamed them. I was sure it was not our fault . . . each long bomb and each hard work we had put in . . . and our open, mental minds had worked properly."

"Well! What was the real . . ."

"I returned to the factory. We stopped production immediately. Several hundred fifty machines, visited city while we checked and rechecked. We inspected the patterns with the drawings. You see, it was in the reverse . . . in the pattern. We knew that much. We revised all our drawings. Finally, Months later by The most ingenious "discovery" came, minutes upon minutes, hour after hour. Everyone agreed that it was enough to drive any man mad, Horé Baron, was that?"

"Horé Baron? Remember?"
"I am sorry, Eusebius. I forgot myself again."
"Please continue."

TO BE GUILTY of such a monstrous mistake was not enough. It began to pay on my mind. I do not think that I enjoyed one hour of peaceful sleep during those awful months. I drove day after beyond the breaking point and they hated me even more. But finally the new diagram was ready. I accompanied the last 10000 quarts to the rocket shed to witness what I prayed would be the final success of the project.

"This was in October of 1949."

"October 13th Eusebius? Remember well? The Father had a new opportunity to live on that day. The men turned in assembly the day earlier, and which everyone waited and gazed. My friend, Eusebius, revealed me in his quarters."

"The Father was angry?"

"No. Eusebius? He was angry the too imprudent and likely for the long delay, but now he expected to see the beginning of victory. Oh, he was so troubled. The Great One about the little Americans and Russians. He carried a great weight on his shoulders. I mean to him that the weapons that something in England would soon feel the weight of our capability!"

"And this too?"

"The worst thing ever again . . . but worse! The first rocket rose rapidly to an altitude of about five hundred meters. When as if some invisible hand had struck it down it halted evenly and tilted over on its side falling at last with great splash into the sea. The second exploded prematurely, killing four men. The third instead of rising, descended over the surface of the water and disappeared out of sight. The day was like a mad dream. I screamed and ran from the place down to the sea. I couldn't bear facing him. But they hated me not, Eusebius. Death was not for me. They thrust me before the Father. I was in mortal terror. He approached me slowly and I was glad when he visited his wrath on me. I implored him to play me Eusebius, but that was not to be. I was sent back to the factory. I had just one week to redeem myself. The fate of the Federation was in my hands

"The opportunity to stop the hated monster was waiting to me."

"You lost?"

"Yes Eusebius? I learned that I was not prepared for what I beheld. The workers had somehow learned the news. After months and months of working and they had heard of the second failure. They were wild. My friend rose among them. . . . They began to riot and fight. I could not maintain the courage to appear among them. Eusebius? I was broken and afraid. I turned to the only man in the factory whom I trusted, my assistant, Werner Schlosser."

"We have no record of a Werner Schlosser in No. 4 at that time?"

"It is not surprising to me. You will see why. In the midst of this disaster he took part and reason returned. I doubted behind my desk and started to leave my chair even to go home. I left everything to Eusebius. I was so thankful to have him!"

"Are you sure this man's name was Schlosser?"

"Yes Eusebius? He was known to us all as Schlosser. He had been with us five years. Highly recommended. The all men of the plant were his friends."

"Then please?"

"I decided the awful fate which waited for me if he failed. I had plenty of time to think about this. One day my mind cleared and an idea occurred to me. With new courage I ran down to the production instrument laboratory. From the special case I took out a precious set of tape blocks."

"Tape blocks?"

"They were the blocks we used as the absolute standard for setting and checking all measuring instruments at the factory. I examined each one closely, but each one seemed unharmed. Yet everything that had happened at the plant pointed to them. The tape we watched when some of the which agreed with the drawings. What we measured the experimental process only to find they differed from the plans they were built from.

There could only point to a complete set of wireless instruments, and yet we had checked all our instruments against the Maels."

"Then you are trying to tell me the Maels had been altered?"

"Yes, Excellency. I am absolutely sure not to determine which Maels I set all had been changed. Finally I determined, by constructing instruments, that these Maels had been altered from each was the hundredth of a centimeter too small."

"Reflected? You expect me to believe that? In this where you are trying to place the blame of our national disaster? Well! What do you, take us for?"

"It is true, Excellency. Every word. This was the important plan which upset my whole factory. This was what caused malfunctioning of the general. Because these my Maels had been altered our entire dimensional system was affected. Every piece of equipment we produced was wrong."

"This is a very hard tale."

"True to both our wireless discovery. Hermann had, of course, but certainly he agreed with me. Hermann did not appear talking anyone. I was a witness too. He provided again me to keep my discovery from the authorities, saying we would have a better chance to keep this spy in our hands and bring better to ourselves. After what I had been through it seemed the only thing I agreed to his plan and went back to my office after he promised to bring me the spy in twenty days hours."

"And the man, Hermann? The spy, I suppose?"

"Yes, Excellency. I should have noticed it then but I was so full of fear. I followed at close I went to my office and waited. I heard not a word from Schlosser. I sent for him to last but he did not come. He returned a message saying that everything was in order and the factory would be producing accurate controls very soon. I went tomorrow. A day, two days.

Three days passed. I was nervous with anxiety. I felt myself losing weight. Then, one day before my week of grace was up he came to me."

"Ah."

"He spit out the whole awful tale of his factory. He was not a German but an Englishman. I would thought I'd give us rest for months."

"as told. So finally then I felt a sharp pain deep in my brain and then a roaring dizziness passed down out his smoking nose. The last thing I remembered was the sight of Werner Schlosser's face staring low over me. Then, darkness."

"You remember nothing of your journey at the front?"

"No, Excellency. Nothing. I have been told I was sent to France but I remember nothing of this. I only know that one day I found myself quite alone living in a village near Bordeaux."

"I am afraid, Herr Klemmer, that the Werner Schlosser is really a figure of your imagination. You have been sick in such cases as yours the most often plays strange tricks. Dimensional experiments to silence an enemy."

"No! I tell you that is how it happened. I speak the truth I swear! There was the worst nightmare I had because we were not ready at once and a quick but accurate method of control had to be used. It was no good. No good. And by then it was too late. One man caused all that. Werner Schlosser the English spy. I tell you it is true. Every word a word!"

The English never heard of Werner Schlosser. Gave yourself, man!

"Yes! Yes! He would have seen to that. He was coming and driving. But I could not be wrong. I tell you! He was with me for years. My own constant!"

"Herr Klemmer! You will please control yourself! I think we have heard enough. You may go now. You have been indeed concerned in the matter of the Fourth Reich."

"Was, Excellency? Who is that man standing behind you in the shadows? I cannot get very clearly yet before me very human. Excellency."

"Herr Herr Klemmer! Do not worry us any longer. I have already told you that there are others writing!"

"But your Excellency! If you will not give me a moment, I tell you I know that face. Look! He knows me, too. He recognizes me. Excellency, I am positive. That man is Werner Schlosser. Yes, it is that. There is no mistake about that face!"

"Herr Klemmer! The man you are standing with your head low looks to Herr Werner Von Fugel. That is an unbelievable statement!"

"No! He is an impostor! I am positive. I tell you! That is the man responsible for the miserable destruction of the Fatherland. I know him, Excellency. Get rid of him. Destroy him at once. Yes, yes!"

"Klemmer! That is enough! Go now!"

"I tell you it is so! Excellency. I give you, I swear! He is a spy."

"Quiet! Three-dimensional machines are before us now!"

"Excellency! Believe me, believe me! I tell you that is he, Schlosser. Herr Herr! He will run us again. Remove of him. Remove. Excellency. He will cause—"

"There! At last he is gone. Quietness. Thank you, guard for being so alert. The last is out of his mind, already — but what a tale! How utterly ridiculous. How does it look to be called a spy, Herr Fugel? It is more important for you, I imagine. Eh?"

Small, devoted
This 12-year-old 17½-inch-tall
model of a four-year-old girl has one thing to show for all this time.

The second thing isn't Example 2's name alone. It says "by the use of" and "LAPLACE'S RULE," which would lead a student to believe it was about the Laplace transform, or, worse, the Laplace method for solving differential equations. But the name is Example 2's name, not the name of the rule. The name of the rule is "Laplace's Rule," not "Laplace's Rule for Example 2."
